THEDFORD'S BLACK-DRAUGHT THE ORIGINAL LIVER MEDICINE

A sallow complexion, dizziness, biliousness and a coated tongue are common indications of liver and kidney diseases. Stomach and bowel troubles, severe as they are, give immediate warning by pain, but liver and kidney troubles, though less painful at the start, are much harder to cure. Thedford's Black-Draught never fails to benefit diseased liver and weakened kidneys. It stirs up the torpid liver to throw off the germs of fever and ague. It is a certain preventive of cholera and Bright's disease of the kidneys. With kidneys reinforced by Thedford's Black-Draught thousands of persons have dwelt immune in the midst of yellow fever. Many families live in perfect health and have no other doctor than Thedford's Black-Draught. It is always on hand for use in an emergency and saves many expensive calls of a doctor.

Mullins, S. C., March 10, 1901.
I have used Thedford's Black-Draught for three years and I have not had to go to a doctor since I have been taking it. It is the best medicine for me that is on the market for liver and kidney troubles and dyspepsia and other complaints. Rev. A. G. LEWIS.

HER ANSWER

The battle at last was finished. The victory was lost and won, and while the defeated army had fallen back to take shelter in the woods and mountain passes the victorious host had encamped upon the field of action. A thick, misty haze hung over the landscape, through which the setting sun shone like a great copper shield burnished and ready for combat.

Since early morn the battle had been in progress, and the carnage was frightful. Even the sturdiest of the surgeons had more than once turned pale as they worked over their improvised operating tables, and all had felt a sensation of faintness that they did not care to own.

In one corner of the field when the fight had been the hottest, in a little grove of half a dozen trees at the angle of a stone wall, knelt the colonel of a New York regiment beside the prostrate form of his own lieutenant, a young man of English birth and a great favorite among his comrades. His breath came slowly and painfully, and when he strove to speak the lifeblood welled up in his throat so as to almost choke all utterance.

"Creston, my boy," said the colonel in the low voice which he always used when in the presence of suffering, for the colonel was as kind and as gentle as a woman to the sick, "is there anything more that I can do for you—any word or message that you want to send? For you know"—

Creston's lips parted with a faint and almost impereceptible motion, and the colonel, bending low, caught the words, "Lift—me—up."

Raising the dying man to a half sitting position, the colonel held him in his own strong arms and gently wiped the red froth from his lips.

"Colonel"—the words were weak and low—"my vest—open—the—the—pocket—inside"—

The exertion was so great that he could say no more. The colonel, opening the vest, drew from an inner pocket a miniature, the portrait of a young and beautiful girl, so beautiful that even then the colonel could not help gazing upon the likeness with interest and admiration.

"And this?" he questioned as he held it up to the eyes of his dying comrade. The pale face of the sufferer grew strangely bright when he looked upon the bit of painted ivory before him.

"In England," he whispered, "she lives—Densmond in Devonshire—you'll remember—take her this yourself—no one else. Find her in Densmond—Amelia Burton. Tell her—I didn't forget"— A torrent of crimson lifeblood gushed from his lips, and all was over. The colonel arose, folded a blanket and placed it beneath the head of the corpse. Then the night winds gathered and whispered among the trees and brushed with their dark pinions the bright, cold drops that stood on the pale forehead of Herbert Creston.

Already the sun was casting long shadows over the landscape around the pretty English village of Densmond in Devonshire, for Densmond was pretty and everybody said so—that is, everybody who had ever been there said so. And, as for those unfortunate beings who had not been there, they were so very much in the minority that no one ever cared a straw what they said or thought.

The day had been hot and sultry, and with the advent of the cooling breezes of evening every one who could possibly get out of doors did so, for the air was delicious now after the overpowering heat of the day.

Along the dusty highway a man, well dressed and evidently a stranger in the country through which he was passing, was walking slowly, evidently absorbed in thought. He was about forty, of a bronzed complexion and dark hair, now slightly tinged with gray. On the whole, he was far from handsome, nor did the scar of a saber wound across his forehead add to his attractions.

Just now he paused before a cottage that stood somewhat back from the public road, almost buried in flowers, like the modest and retiring cottage that it was. Sounds of happy laughter came from an arbor concealed by the surrounding hedge. Colonel Nathaniel Pember paused but a moment, however, before he opened the gate.

"Can you tell me," he asked one of the party of young girls that met his view as he entered, "if you know of any one residing in this neighborhood of the name of—of Amelia Burton?"

"Yes, indeed," answered one of the young ladies, with a meaning smile, "but you'll have to hurry, though, for there will be no such person here after tonight."

"She—she is not sick—not dying, is she?" questioned the colonel hastily.

"Oh, not at all," answered the young lady, with a pleasant laugh; "only she's going to be married to Lord Littel tonight."

"Married?" said the colonel half to himself; then aloud: "Can you tell me where she lives? I must see her upon business—something very important."

"It's not very far from here. The house in the park that you see on the left belongs to her father. But you must hurry. It's after 6:30, and you've scarce an hour."

Colonel Pember turned and walked hastily along the road. "Married—married—then I am too late. Perhaps not. I don't understand it. I can't." And with every step he took came the refrain, "Married, married, married."

The next day Densmond was all excitement. The daughter of the Hon. Crofton Burton had refused at the last moment to marry Lord Lorloose Littel. And then, too, the appearance of this suspicious looking American. That must not be overlooked. Surely there was something in this, "if those as knew would tell." But the Hon. Burton, M. P., would tell nothing, and as Lord Littel had left for town that morning he could tell nothing, and Miss Burton had declared that she would tell nothing. So there the matter rested, and like every other sensation was almost forgotten ten days after.

Almost, I say, for Colonel Pember had taken lodgings at the Pot and Kettle, and scarcely a day passed but he made his way to The Oaks, the residence of Mr. Burton, who seemed to have a great fancy for his company.

Nor was it long in becoming common talk that the colonel had returned to Miss Burton on the eve of her intended wedding a blood stained miniature, the token of a schoolgirl love that she had given to Herbert Creston, the village ne'er do well, and that as she saw the picture, stained with his lifeblood, the old love had returned, and she had refused to marry any one else.

So passed a year, and again summer visited the little village, sprinkling the lawns with yellow dandelions and the hedges with all manner of sweetness. From the many farmyards came the sounds of cattle and of fowls upon the clear and silent air, mingled with the distant dashing of brooks. The trees, resplendent in their "garments of green," cast grateful shadows for the noonday wanderer. And then the gardens—roses everywhere! The air was one mass of perfume, delightful and overpowering, the first sweet gift of summer.

During this time Miss Burton had not been seen by the village folk save on one or two rare occasions, and those who had viewed her reported that she was looking pale and sickly and that she scarcely ever spoke. Now, however, at the approach of summer she had thrown off her gloomy aspect, laid aside the "inky cloak" that she had insisted upon wearing and had even gone so far as to ride out into the country and always with the colonel as a companion.

One night they walked together in the gardens that almost entirely surrounded The Oaks. There was no other light than that of the stars. As Amelia paused the colonel placed his arm about her and held her hand.

"You have my answer?" he questioned softly.

"It is 'yes?'" he asked.

And she answered, "Yes."

* * * * * * * *

Far away in the wilderness of Virginia the night winds gathered and whispered and murmured and muttered and with their dark pinions brushed the bright cold drops of dew that clung to the blades of grass above the unmarked grave of Herbert Creston.

Palmerston and the Empire.

When Lord Palmerston was premier of Great Britain, he took over the colonial office for a time during the absence of Lord John Russell on a foreign mission. His first question of the permanent secretary of that department was, "Mr. Merivale, where are the colonies?" He was cheered to find the office full of maps. "I manage the British empire, as you know," he said, "but I never could understand my latitude and longitude or make out where the British empire isn't."

Books and Germs.

A medical journal draws attention to the dangers of circulating libraries and says that all books should be disinfected before being taken from them. Experiments have proved that the germ of diphtheria will live for twenty-eight days in a volume and the germ of tuberculosis for more than a hundred days.

WOMEN WORKERS.

"Well, we'll have to get up an ice cream social," said the president of the Ladies' Aid society. There was a debt hanging over the church that was "worrisome," and the pastor and the trustees naturally turned to the women for help. The ice cream social was the first thing that suggested itself because it was in the summer time. If it had been in the winter, it would have been an oyster supper. But always it would have been the women who were expected to raise the debt.

Few people realize until they stop to think how much of the church work devolves upon the women. The women are the mainstays of the church, and if you take out the operating department of the churches, the various women's organizations, whether it is the ladies' aid society or the general run of the sodalities of the Catholics or the guilds of the Episcopalians, there would not be much left from which to expect assistance in raising the rest of the preacher's salary or wiping out the debt.

Of course, it is the men who in the long run furnish the money, but all the difficulties and the unpleasantness and the hard work are managed by the women, and all the men have to do is to come around to the socials and entertainments and get about $2 worth of amusement or eatables for half a dollar or a quarter, as the case may be.

There are different names for the women's organizations according to the denominations, but it always amounts to the same thing in the long run, and if statistics were at hand to show just how much money the women turn into the church coffers it would undoubtedly be shown that without the women the trustees would come out of the little end of the financial horn at the end of the year. The pastors are always generous in their acknowledgments of the effective work done by the women.—Kansas City Star.

Misdirected Energies.

The waste of energy shown by some men is pathetic. With the intention of accomplishing worthy deeds they urge themselves to efforts which, properly directed, would bring the early fulfillment of their ambitions. Their failures largely lie in not clearly defining the object which they gain or in working spasmodically or without system to accomplish it. They are seized at times by discouragement and lack of faith in themselves when the turning of their forces into the proper channels and a steady, unceasing pull toward the goal would speedily bring them to it.—Mahin's Magazine.

A Palpable Lie.

Bertie—It's very wrong, father, to tell a falsehood, isn't it?

Father—Of course it is, my boy.

Bertie—And it's wicked to ask a boy to tell lies?

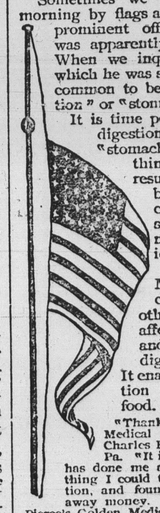
Father—Why, yes.

Bertie—Well, that's what my master made me do today.

Father—Goodness gracious! Made you tell a lie, Bertie?

Bertie—Yes; he made me promise always to be a good boy in the future.

AT HALF MAST.



Sometimes we are greeted in the morning by flags at half-mast for some prominent official who yesterday was apparently in perfect health. When we inquire the ailment by which he was stricken it is not uncommon to be told "acute indigestion" or "stomach trouble."

It is time people learned that indigestion or any form of "stomach trouble" is not a thing to trifle with. The result may not be fatal, but there can be no condition of diseased stomach which does not carry with it physical loss and weakness.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures indigestion and other forms of disease affecting the stomach and its allied organs of digestion and nutrition. It enables the perfect digestion and assimilation of food.

"Thanks to Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery," writes Mr. Charles H. German, of Lehighton, Pa. "It is the only medicine that has done me any good. I tried everything I could think of to cure indigestion, and found I was only throwing away money. Then I heard of Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and tried a bottle of it, and to my joy found it was doing me good. I used six bottles of it, and am now cured. It is the best medicine on earth."

This grand remedy does its work in a thorough manner; it gives the health that is all health; the strength that is solid, substantial and lasting; not flabby fat, not false stimulus, but genuine, complete, renewed vitality and life force.

Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." There is nothing "just as good" for diseases of the stomach, blood and lungs.

SUMMER VISITORS.

The California Northwestern Railway Company, with commendable enterprise and in anticipation of a big influx of summer visitors to the Sonoma Valley the coming season, is to the fore this week in a double half-column announcement, which will be found elsewhere in this paper.

The California Northwestern's "Vacation, 1903," will be issued from the press about the second week in February, and in order to advertise to the world just what this valley is capable of doing toward accommodating visitors the coming spring and summer Mr. R. X. Ryan, the General Passenger Agent of the company, would be pleased to hear from everybody who is in a position to board, room, entertain and furnish camping facilities to the many people who anticipate being with us in a few months if our people will prepare for them.

By carefully reading the announcement of the California Northwestern, which occupies a conspicuous space in these columns, and complying with its wishes, our home people will not only be placing money directly in their own pockets but will also do much toward helping the railroad people to advertise and populate our beautiful valley with its share of the thousands of new home-seekers who make an annual pilgrimage from the congested cities into the country in quest of pure air, green fields, bright flowers, murmuring brooks and azure skies.

THERE will be a State Convention of County Assessors in San Francisco on January 19th and 20th.

Miss Mary Burke has been appointed on the County Board of Education by the Supervisors of Marin County. We congradulate Miss Burke, as she is in every way qualified for the position.

THE centenary of Chicago is to be celebrated this year, not because the city has reached the age of 100 years, but because the War Department of the United States located the site of Fort Dearborn and provided for its construction in the early part of 1803.

Proverbs

"When the butter won't come put a penny in the churn," is an old time dairy proverb. It often seems to work though no one has ever told why.

When mothers are worried because the children do not gain strength and flesh we say give them Scott's Emulsion.

It is like the penny in the milk because it works and because there is something astonishing about it.

Children take to it naturally because they like the taste and the remedy takes just as naturally to the children because it is so perfectly adapted to their wants.

For all weak and pale and thin children Scott's Emulsion is the most satisfactory treatment.

We will send you the penny, i. e., a sample free.

Camping is becoming more popular every season and amongst our very best people. Choice spots where families or parties can be by themselves will be in demand, and for which a reasonable charge can be secured.

In giving information please follow the form given above for summer boarders. Campers will want milk, cream, butter, eggs, poultry, fruit and vegetables, and if these can be furnished on the farm please mention it. Do not forget to add "running water," if there be any convenient, as half a day's work with a few sacks of dirt will make a pool for the daily bath.

Must have the information not later than February 9th, 1903, in order to advertise it in our "Vacation, 1903," and for which no charge will be made.

On motion of Trustee Breitenbach, seconded by Trustee Pinelli, L. Maffei was given the job of hauling thirty square yards of gravel to be used north of Napa street, the compensation to be 70 cents per square yard. Also, ten and a half square yards of gravel at 65 cents per square yard.

Geo. H. H. Cornelius was unanimously elected City Recorder for one year.

A communication was received from Geo. H. H. Cornelius tendering his resignation as a member of the Board of Health.

On motion of Trustee Hotz, which received a second from Trustee Ciucci, the resignation was accepted.

The efforts of Trustees Poppe and Breitenbach to foist upon the tax payers of Sonoma five hydro carbonare lights for street lighting purposes, was a dismal failure, as no Trustee would second Breitenbach's motion to advertise for bids for putting in the same.

A communication was received from Geo Bulotti offering to light the city with acetylene gas. The communication was read but no action was taken.

On motion of Trustee Ciucci, seconded by Trustee Pinelli, the Street Committee was instructed to remove the stone gutter on Spain street opposite Fochetti's machine shop.

On motion of Trustee Breitenbach, seconded by Trustee Hotz, the Street Committee was instructed to provide a hitching rack on First street West opposite the Union Hotel.

IMPROVEMENTS

A $5,000 Home For Mr. and Mrs. Chas. H. Ohm.

Building improvements have been going on steadily in town and valley the past year and the end is not yet. With the advent of the New Year many improvements are contemplated and others will be in full swing this month. Among the notable building events in town is the erection of a new hotel by L. Quartaroli.

This edifice will occupy a site on the south side of Napa street west of First-street West. It will be a two-story twenty five room structure, 60x60 feet. The contract for the building was let to Joe B. Small of this place last Saturday. Work on this hotel will be commenced at once and the terms of the contract call for its completion on April 15th. The hotel, which will occupy a fine lot on Mr. Quartaroli's 12-acre town site facing on Napa street, will be ready for occupancy about May 1st. It will be newly furnished throughout and the large grounds surrounding the hotel will be beautified with trees, shrubbery, vines and flowers.

In connection with the hotel there will be a barn and stable, 48x30 feet, and a wine cellar, 60x36 feet, both of which are already completed. It is the intention of Mr. and Mrs. Quartaroli to conduct a model hotel for summer visitors to this valley.

Another notable building improvement which will be commenced this month is that of Chas. H. Ohm, who recently purchased the Burns ranch of 167 acres, located two miles northwest of town. This improvement will consist of an eight-room residence with all the modern conveniences. The contract for the erection of the building has already been let to contractor Moller of Petaluma at a cost in the neighborhood of $5,000. A fine barn, 50x50 feet, has already been built on the place and after the residence has been completed other costly improvements will follow. It is Mr. Ohm's intention to make the old Burns place one of the model farm homes of the Sonoma Valley.

Another building improvement is that being made by Mrs. Blanche Weems, who is having a six-room cottage erected on Broadway. When completed the house will be occupied by Prof. Smith, principal of the High School.

The Sonoma House, now owned by Leo Justi and recently vacated by Mrs. Ellen Glynn, is being completely renovated and will be thrown open to the public today by the lessee, Mons. P. Guailhardou, the well-known French chef and one of the best caterers on the coast.

Mrs. Minna Leiding, owner of the Union Hotel property, is having a fine cement sidewalk laid in front of that hostlery. The walk is one hundred feet in length and twenty feet wide. This improvement, which will add much to the appearance of the property, will cost several hundred dollars.

In addition to these improvements which are already under headway, many more are contemplated, among these being the enlargement of the Sonoma Electric Light Company's plant in this place at a cost of between $2,500 and $3,500.

Deputy Assessors.

County Assessor Frank E. Dowd has named the deputy assessors for the year as follows: J. C. Smith, Santa Rosa, chief deputy; W. S. Dudley, Healdsburg; William King, Cazadero; A. J. Pains in the Back

Are symptoms of a weak, torpid or stagnant condition of the kidneys or liver, and are a warning it is extremely hazardous to neglect, so important is a healthy action of these organs.

They are commonly attended by loss of energy, lack of courage, and sometimes by gloomy foreboding and despondency.

"I had pains in my back, could not sleep and when I got up in the morning felt worse than the night before. SONOMA ELECTRIC LIGHT CO.

Will Expend Several Thousand Dollars to Improve Its Service.

The impotent efforts of the Silurians and Go-Backs of Sonoma, represented on the Board of City Trustees by Geo. Breitenbach and J. E. Poppe, to down the Sonoma Electric Light Company and the eight enterprising citizens back of it, has gone for naught.

In order to decrease the income of our local electric light company to gratify a personal spite against several of its stockholders these two irresponsible Trustees cut off the street lighting service last May, relegated the town to darkness and inflicted an injury to its business interests that will take a long time to recover from.

The object of Trustees Breitenbach and Poppe in cutting off the street lights has signally failed in so far as our local electric light company is concerned, for it is stronger than ever, as the citizens of the town have stood right royally by the company in taking its lights and encouraging the promoters of the only local enterprise ever started in Sonoma with the capital and backbone to back it up and win success.

This was made manifest at a meeting of the directors of the Sonoma Electric Light Company, held last Tuesday evening, when it was decided to improve its lighting service at a cost of several thousand dollars. This will be good news to the enterprising, go ahead people of both town and valley but will be swallowed with a wry face by the Silurians and Pull Backs as represented on the Board of City Trustees by Mossbacks Breitenbach and Poppe, both of whom have publicly declared on more than one occasion that "a lantern is good enough for me on a dark night." But this digression is a waste of ammunition on two very dead municipal ducks, who ought to have shed their pin-feathers about two thousand years ago. We now get down to the real business under discussion.

President Duhring and Secretary Granice of our local electric light company are now in communication with the big electric power company and if power can be secured from that source at reasonable cost a transformer will be put in and connection made with the big wires of that company. This would give the patrons of our local electric light company an all night service.

Should these negotitations fail a duplicate engine and dynamo will be added to our local electric plant which at the present time is being pushed to its utmost capacity to supply the demand for incandescent electric lights in our business houses and dwellings. To make connection with the big power company would entail an outlay of over $3,000. A duplicate engine and dynamo will cost in the neighborhood of $2,500.

One of these two improvements will be made at once.

U. S. Senator Perkins has forwarded to this office from Washton one hundred packages of vegetable seeds for free distribution. A New Year's Day Wedding.

One of the pretty weddings celebrated on New Year's day was that of Miss Bertha Powell Morgan and Roy Max Smith. The ceremony took place in Ross Valley at "Rose Lawn," the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Morgan, Rev. E. H. King of Napa officiated.

The bride is an accomplished pianist, having studied in San Francisco and afterward in Germany for several years.

Mr. Smith is a young business man of San Francisco and a nephew of G. H. Hotz of this place. He is well known in musical circles, being the possessor of a pleasing tenor voice.

The bride had as her maid of honor Miss Florence Morgan, and Miss Lillian Johnson of Ross acted as bridesmaid. The groom was assisted by his brother, O. K. Smith, who acted as best man, and George Morgan, a brother of the bride, lent his services as usher.

The bridal party entered the handsome parlors to the strains of Mendelssohn's "Wedding March," played by Miss Lillian Sweet of Napa, a cousin of the groom. During the ceremony the young couple stood in a bower of greens and holly berries.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith did not take a wedding trip, but went at once to a little home that had been prepared for them on California street, near Webster, in San Francisco.

The Glen Ellen Grangers, Patrons of Husbandry, held a meeting last Saturday and installed their newly-elected officers, and wound up with a grand banquet, speeches by Dr. C. C. O'Donnell, T. Johnson and others.

We are likely to have plenty of accomodations here the coming season for the numerous pleasure seekers in search of health, rest and ease. J. B. Harman and A. A. Miller, two capitalists of San Francisco, were here last week looking the country over to find a desirable site for a first-class summer resort. They are men of means and understand the business. We wish them success.

Some three years ago Mr. A. Froment, a retired business man of San Francisco, came here with his wife and little ones to make a home. He purchased the old Gibson ranch near Warfield station. The Gibson family were pioneer settlers of this valley and one of them was the first Postmaster of Glen Ellen. Mr. Froment has improved the place wonderfully, remodling and adding to the house and inclosing the grounds with a neat fence, so that it now presents a very genteel, home-like appearance. With its large and productive orchard of all the many varities of fruit trees which grow in such profusion here the place makes a pretty picture of rural life, comfort and ease. Mr. and Mrs. Froment are very pleasant, social people to visit with, always affable, cheerful and courteous. Mr. Froment is a member of the Glen Ellen Improvement Club and chairman of the same. He leads in every good work for the advancement of this burg.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portions of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition hearing will be destroyed forever. Nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give one hundred dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

The Laddie Knew.

At a recent school examination by the school board an officious member intimated that he would give a certain class a lesson on "wool." After lecturing to the children for a considerable time without any appearance of attention from the class he stopped short and began questioning one dull looking boy, says the Scottish American. "Well, my boy," said he, taking hold of the boy's jacket, "what is this jacket made of?" The boy, hanging down his head, remained quite silent. "Come, come, my boy," the member coaxingly said. "Don't you know what your jacket is made of?" With eyes still on the floor the boy answered, "It was made out o' ma faither's auld breeks."

Spoiled the Lecture.

"Gentlemen," recently said a German professor who was showing to his students the patients in the asylum, "this man suffers from delirium tremens. He is a musician. It is well known that blowing a brass instrument affects the lungs and the throat in such a way as to create a great thirst, which has to be allayed by persistent indulgence in strong drink; hence in course of time the disease you have before you." Turning to the patient, the professor asked, "What instrument do you blow?" and the answer was, "The violoncello."

Clothing Aflame.

If one's clothing catches fire, the flame must be smothered. If the lower garments are blazing, sit on them; if the upper garments, then a blanket or even a hearth rug may be wrapped round, and one should roll on the floor to crush out the flame while shouting for help. Many lives have been lost by people running for assistance and thus fanning the flame, instead of beginning the work of extinguishing it for themselves.

In Case of a Catastrophe.

"What chance would a man have if that building were to fall?" asked one man of another, looking up at a Park row building the other day from the postoffice entrance.

"He'd have to run for it," was the ill considered reply.

"Run from it! Where would he go? If it fell this way, it would reach to Park place; if it fell toward the bridge, it would go to Spruce street; if it fell toward the East river, it would stop short of the middle of the block between Nassau and William streets, and if it fell down Broadway it would cross Fulton street. Run from it? My dear sir, where could a man go in more than twice the time it would take for the whole thing to be in ruins?"

"In the opposite direction to its fall," said the other fellow, and the more excited of the pair stared a minute at the other, swallowed an imaginary lump in his throat and slowly walked away. — New York Tribune.

A Good Cement.

The following cement is said to stick on anything: Take of clear gum arabic two ounces, of fine starch one and a half ounces and of white sugar half an ounce.

Reduce the gum arabic to powder and dissolve it in as much water as a laundress would use to render one and a half ounces of starch fit for use. Dissolve the starch and sugar in the gum solution. Then place the mixture in a vessel and plunge the vessel itself in boiling water and let it remain there until the starch becomes clear. The cement should be as thick as tar and remain so. It can be kept from spoiling by dropping in a lump of gum camphor or a little oil of cloves or sassafras. This cement is said to be very strong indeed and will cause glazed surfaces to adhere perfectly. It is useful for repairing specimens of rocks, minerals or fossils that may have been accidentally broken.

Shy Actors.

Charles Mathews, the actor, who entertained crowded houses night after night, was naturally one of the shiest of men. He would even make long circuits, lame though he was, along the bylanes of London to avoid recognition. His wife says of him that he looked "sheepish" and confused if recognized and that his eyes would fall and his color would mount if he heard his name even whispered in passing along the streets.

It is related of Garrick that when subpœnaed on Barreti's trial and required to give his evidence before the court, though he had been accustomed for thirty years to act with the greatest self possession in the presence of thousands, he became so perplexed and confused that he was actually sent from the witness box by the judge as a man from whom no evidence could be obtained.

The Donkey and Its Picture.

When the late shah of Persia visited London some years ago, the following incident occurred: "At an exhibition in London," wrote the late shah, "the picture of a donkey was shown, and I asked the price of it. The director of the exhibition, a fat, white bearded man, who gave information about the prices, told me it was £100. I remarked: 'The value of a live donkey is £5. How is it, then, that this, which is but a picture of an ass, is to be paid so dearly for?' The director said, 'Because it is not a source of expense, as it eats neither straw nor barley.' I replied, 'True, it is not a source of outlay, but neither will it carry a load or give one a ride.' We laughed heartily."

SONOMA INDEX - TRIBUNE

SONOMA, SATURDAY, JAN. 10, 1903.

CHIN AND EYEBROWS.

How to Interpret These Indexes to a Woman's Character.

In their portraiture of fair women the poets, who claim to be experts in drawing, have omitted to mention in detail the chief feature in a woman's face—the feature which more than any other is an index to her womanly character.

The poets have forgotten the chin. From Lavater down to the humblest novice in physiognomical research the chin claims first attention, especially the chin of women. A woman without a perfect chin is like a beautiful garden—scentless. She is admired, but is without the quality that excites love and passion. The face of the ideal woman must have a well developed chin, full and round, rather erring to the side of prominence than being small and insignificant. If you care to examine the matter for yourself, you will find if you glance round your list of female friends that the most loving, gracious and womanly have excellent chins.

A woman with a small chin, pointed and weak in comparison with the rest of the face, is doomed to single life. A woman with a respectable chin makes a fond mother and a good wife.

When Shakespeare mentions the lover writing a sonnet to his mistress' eyebrows, he is stating a truth of utmost value to men in search of a wife. Thick eyebrows mean depth of character, thought and feeling. The shallow woman has thin and fading eyebrows.

Novelists who have any name for truth in the painting of their heroines give their women bushy and luxuriant eyebrows. The same fact holds good with respect to eyelashes. Eyebrows and lashes of thick and uniform growth beautify the eyes and usually are found to set off a pair of fine eyes.—New York American.

Santa Cruz's Wave Motor.

It is said that the only practical and efficient wave motor in existence is owned by the city of Santa Cruz, Cal. At a point unprotected by outlying rocks or shoals are two wells, eight and five feet in diameter, sunk in the cliff, one behind the other, the foremost only five feet from the edge of the cliff. These wells extend from thirty feet above high tide to below the ebb and open at the bottom in the ocean. A counter balanced float rises and falls in the foremost well as the swells outside raise or lower the water level. The plunger of a common force pump occupies the second well, and on the down stroke this forces the salt water vertically 125 feet to a five thousand gallon tank built on a sixty foot platform. From the derrick the water runs to tanks along the country roads for miles around and is used for sprinkling purposes. In ordinary weather the pump fills the tank in an hour.

Egyptian Women.

The Egyptian beasts of burden—the camel, the ox, the donkey—have the same patient look as the people. It may not be improper to add another beast of burden—woman. There is the look of sad patience in every Egyptian woman's eyes as in the melancholy river boiling at its great task and in the face of the camel, the donkey and the ox. They all look at you with the same expression of patience. They seem content to live no matter what the conditions of their often wretched life and not desirous of making change or resistance. The long swing of the camel, the measured stride of the ox or buffalo, the half trot of the donkey, are seen everywhere. The woman's face is covered—at least her mouth is always—for no Mohammedan woman may open her mouth to the vulgar gaze of passersby. All have the same expression in their eyes as the camel or other animal.

Making a Salad.

Epicures declare that oil should thoroughly coat salad before vinegar is used. If vinegar is used first, oil does not cling to wet vegetables. To dress a salad properly rub every portion of the salad bowl with a crushed clove of garlic. Then put in the vegetable, lettuce, cress or whatever it may be and add the oil, which has been mingled with the salt and pepper. Toss the leaves about lightly, never crushing them, until every portion is covered. Then pour in the vinegar and repeat the process. The result should be a light, crisp salad. "Haste makes waste" in nothing more surely than salad making.

The Octopus.

The octopuses are pretty plentiful in Japanese waters and have been known to attack fishermen in their boats. When this hideous monster assumes the aggressive, the only chance the fishermen have is to lop off the tentacles of the beast. Failing this, the boat may be upset and the men dragged under. The octopus is highly valued in Japan as an article of food.

Dislocated Her Shoulder.

Mrs. Johanna Soderholm, of Fergus Falls, Minn., fell and dislocated her shoulder. She had a surgeon get it back in place as soon as possible, but it was quite sore and pained her very much. Her son mentioned that he had seen Chamberlain's Pain Balm advertised for sprains and soreness, and she asked him to buy her a bottle of it, which he did. It quickly relieved her and enabled her to sleep which she had not done for several days. The son was so much pleased with the relief it gave his mother that he has since recommended it to many others. For sale by F. Duhring. *

A "SALTED" MINE.

Buyer and Seller Both Concluded That They Were Satisfied.

"There is an old saying that it is not all gold that glitters," remarked a man from the far west to a friend in Detroit the other night. "Out in the mining country where I belong our estimate of human nature is based principally on dollars and cents.

"I remember that one day in the vicinity where I was working a man came out prospecting. One of the boys had a claim near Carson City which was termed in miners' parlance a 'dead one'—that is, it had been worked and found unproductive. The stranger, however, wanted to see this claim.

"The miner borrowed a nine dollar nugget from a friend and went with him. When they reached the claim in question, the miner made it a point to drop the nugget in a conspicuous place. The stranger saw it, picked it up and kept it. He expressed himself as satisfied with the outlook, and both returned to Carson City, where the would be mine owner had the nugget assayed. The outcome of the matter was that he offered $500 for the claim, which after some dickering was accepted by the owner.

"Of course it was but a short time until he discovered that he had got the worst of it, and he came back to Carson City in quest of the man who sold him the claim. He found the latter enjoying himself with the money he had received for the hole in the ground and, going to him, threatened to have him arrested for receiving money under false pretenses.

"His former companion merely smiled and said: 'Look here, my friend; you were looking for the best of it, and so was I. As a matter of fact, I think I got it. Now, the best thing for you to do is to keep quiet, for if you talk about obtaining a warrant for my arrest in this matter I will do the same and charge you with the theft of that nine dollar nugget I purposely dropped for your benefit.'

"Each one looked at the other for a moment, and then both smiled."—Detroit Free Press.

His Home Name.

One of the requirements of the public school system of New York city is that the Christian name of the father, if living, of every pupil shall be entered upon the class roll each term. With the older children it is an easy matter to acquire this information, but it calls for the exercise of some diplomacy to get the little ones to respond readily, and frequently the teacher is called upon to frame some special question when the stereotyped query, "What is your father's name?" fails to bring forth a satisfactory reply. One small girl, whose educational career began this term, in answer to this question replied, "Mr. Blank."

"But what is his first name—John, Charles or what?" persisted the teacher.

"Mr. Blank," was the answer a second time.

"But what does your mamma call him, Mary? What did she say to him this morning?"

"You big, fat slob," was the disconcerting answer, and Mary's examination was postponed until the next session.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Success In Life.

There are scores of living men who might be mentioned who have attained to all that goes to make up success as it is commonly estimated, says the San Francisco Chronicle. They have wealth, social and political influence and popularity; they have everything that heart can wish, and yet the man of the world of the average sort would not for a moment admit that their success is to be compared with that of the man who has lost everything, yet has served his country as a patriot, has made the foundation of the state a little stronger, the life of the common people a little sweeter and happier, has given to his family and his friends an example of unspotted rectitude and in doing these things has missed personal advancement and pleasure.

Scripture Cake.

There was a church bazaar in the village of Corie, Strathearn, Scotland, recently, and a novelty at one of the stalls was a sale of what was called "Scripture cake," which was in great demand. It was made according to the following recipe: Take four and a half cups of I Kings iv, 22, first clause; one and a half cups of Judges v, 25, last clause; two cups of Jeremiah v, 20; two cups of I Samuel xxx, 12; two cups of Nahum iii, 12; one cup of Numbers xvii, 8; two tablespoonfuls of I Samuel xv, 25; season to taste with II Chronicles ix, 9, six of Jeremiah xvii, 11; a pinch of Leviticus ii, 13; half a cup of Judges iv, 19, making powder. Finally follow Solomon's prescription, Proverbs xxiii, 15, for making a good child, and you will have a good cake.

If you desire a good Complexion use Moki Tea, a pure herb drink. It acts on the liver and makes the skin smooth and clear. Cures sick headaches. 25 and 50 cents. Money refunded if it does not satisfy you. Write to W. H. Hooker & Co., Buffalo, N. Y., for For sample. R. G. Shoults, druggist.

Drying preparations simply develop dry catarrh; they dry up the secretions, which adhere to the membrane and decompose, causing a far more serious trouble than the ordinary form of catarrh. Avoid all drying inhalants, fumes, smokes and snuffs and use that which cleanses, soothes and heals. Ely's Cream Balm is such a remedy and will cure catarrh or cold in the head easily and pleasantly. A trial size will be mailed for 10 cents. All druggists sell the 50c. size. Ely Brothers, 56 Warren St., N.Y.

The Balm cures without pain, does not irritate or cause sneezing. It spreads itself over an irritated and angry surface, relieving immediately the painful inflammation. With Ely's Cream Balm you are armed against Nasal Catarrh and Hay Fever.
